Granted, 150 of these songs are in the book of Psalms, which actually is a songbook written by many Israelite leaders over the centuries. Six more of these songs come from the other two songbooks of the Bible: Song of Solomon and Lamentations. But you can find 35ish more songs, chants, dirges, and hymns scattered across the Old and New Testaments.

4. Eat of this Bread - Mike Stanley. This simple, Taizé-style refrain, makes for a very versatile Communion processional song.It's length means it can be sung in procession without the need for hymnbooks. In larger gatherings, it might be a bit too short for the entirety of the procession, but it can be used as a sort of 'transitional' piece before the main Communion song.

The antidote Jesus commended in his discourse with the Samaritan woman remains the best preventive against false worship (John 4:23-24). All true worshipers must worship God in "spirit and in truth." That is, true worship takes place on the inside, in the heart or spirit of the worshiper (cf. Psalm 45:1; 103:1-2).
